

6 Activities with plastic cups, a bath and a young child

- Draw on the cups with non toxic indelible pens and make up a swimming play
Or sing a song to your imaginary friends

- Open end down- make "plopping noises" at the surface sing "Horsey horsey don't you stop"
Then push the cup under the water and let the bubbles escape
Listen to the funny noises
Sing
"If you're happy and you know it make some bubbles"

- Push holes in the bottom of the cups to make shower heads and tickle different parts of your body, name the parts of the body you are washing

- Pour from one cup to another which is even more fun if one cup has holes in it

- Wet your face and then pour water over your face and blow bubbles
Practice on Mum first... "Mum, ready, go" and pour

- Use the cups as paddles and watch the other cups spin around the bath as you paddle

5 activities with a ball, a bath and a young child

- In the water we can roll coloured balls, but they stay still
Watch the ball spin round
Just a little touch and it will turn
- Balls are energetic they want to jump
Push the ball under water, let go and watch it jump out
- Balls will come to you if you paddle
Start with the ball on your right side, paddle on the left
And watch the ball wander around in the current and back to you
- Developing hands and fingers
Try rolling the ball along one arm across your body and down the other side
This develops fingers and hands
Now try up one leg across your tummy and down the other leg
- Coordination and cross patterning
Use your right hand to pick up balls on your left side and then use your left hand to reach across to your right side.
Now try both arms at once

Bath-time is fun, right to the very last drop!

5 Activities with soap bubbles and a bath

- Lye back in a shallow bath with the water circling baby's face blow bubbles so their eyes learn to track, watching the bubbles, without moving their head
- Sitting in the bath blow bubbles and try to have them land on your finger or hand
- Using bubble bath froth up the bath and build towers
- Cover different parts of your body with bubbles
- Blow bubbles into the bath make high pitched noises and deep, low noises
